The mastermind behind this creation envisioned a concept where he could creatively and positively introduce man-made and technological interventions to enhance the natural environment while keeping it intact. The objective is to create a hospitality space that mimics nature aimed at bringing people and animals closer into common existence and understanding. Ultimately, this brand seeks to replicate the biblical Garden of Eden here in this serene natural valley in Ghana.

The Safari Group is committed to sustainable development and respecting the local community and environment in which we operate. Our blueprint is to make Safari Valley energy independent and have the resort completely reliant on renewable energy. This is currently being demonstrated in our use of solar panels, bio-digesters and the waste water recycling plant.

safe for wildlife and ourselves...

Food Policy

Our chefs are also selective with food suppliers to ensure the livestock used for the meat, seafood and dairy are grass-fed and antibiotic free.

About 70% of our kitchen ingredients are sourced internally from the resort's produce, poultry and snail farms. We have a wide variety of fruits and vegetables, pasture raised eggs and meat. Our kitchen prides itself in being a NO MSG ALLOWED (Monosodium Glutamate) food zone. We do not use this ingredient in the preparation of any meal we serve.
